(By United Press)
Moscow, Sept. 24.—Flood waters which inundated parts of Leningrad to a depth of 10 feet when the Neva burst its banks were receding early today, leaving in their wake tangled wreckage, ruined dwellings and streets, and possibly a heavy death toll.

Diminishing cries for help were heard through the night as rescue parties struggled in the pitch darkness against the swirling floods. The city's electrical system was completely ruined.

A terrific storm sweeping the Gulf of Finland yesterday caused a great wall of sea water to enter south of the Neva which flows through the former Russian capital. The river's artificial banks burst, loosing a wave which washed over the lower city, taking the residents by surprise.

Winter Palace Square, which once was the scene of glittering martial reviews when Leningrad, now renamed for the dead communist leader, was known as St. Petersburg, home of the Czars, was submerged.

(By United Press)
Marion, O., Sept. 24.—Overwork on behalf of a suitable memorial to his former chief, the late President Harding, was largely responsible for the sudden death of Brig.-Gen. Chas. E. Sawyer, his son, Dr. Carl Sawyer, said today.

"Father died of cerebral hemorrhage undoubtedly induced by overwork as chairman of the Harding Memorial Association," the young doctor said.

General Sawyer died yesterday afternoon at White Oak Farm where he conducted a large sanatorium. Death came unexpectedly as the general lay on a lounge talking to his wife and son after a hard day's work at the office of the Memorial association.

Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, widow of the late President Harding, was in the house at the time. The late president's personal physician probably will be buried in Marion cemetery near here where Harding lies.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete today, but Dr. Carl Sawyer said burial would be some time Friday in the Marion cemetery.

CRIMES ON PASTOR

Mt. Vernon, Ill., Sept. 24.—The story of Grace Elliott, 21-year-old Centerville girl and friend of Rev. L. M. Hight, who died a few days before she was to have been married in 1922, was brought here today by authorities seeking for possible further crimes of the poison pastor.

Grace died October 13, 1922, at her home near Centerville. Death was ascribed to typhoid fever. She had been ill for several weeks. Rev. Hight, who had held "protracted meetings" at Centerville, all that summer at which Grace was converted and baptized, sat at the bedside of the girl during the last few days of her life.

Thomas Means, a gassed world war veteran, engaged to the girl, was ill at a hospital in Washington, D. C. He returned to his home here but found the girl had died.

Rev. Hight, after the baptism of the girl, asked that she pose with him for a picture. The parents of the girl, who considered him one of the ablest pastors the little community had ever seen consented and the picture was taken. This picture was found in Rev. Hight's possession when he was arrested here for the murder of his wife. He said he could not remember the girl's name. Authorities are conducting an investigation into the case. Rev. Hight, now in jail at Nashville, will be questioned on this new phase of the sensational case, State's Attorney Frank Thompson said.

In the meantime Mrs. Elsie Sweeten, who poisoned her husband as her part of the death pact with the pastor while he poisoned his wife, is in a state of near collapse at Salem, about 20 miles from here.

"Go away, please," she sobbed to those who came to her cell. "I have a headache and I don't want to talk."

The pretty, 34-year-old woman was brought here and Rev. Hight was moved to Nashville after they confessed to the murders.

Mrs. Sweeten has draped blankets over the window and door of her cell to shut out the gaze of the public. She is nervous and haggard and on the verge of collapse, physicians said.

Rev. Hight seems composed. Now that he has made a clean breast of Tien Tsin, China, Sept. 24.—Americans and other foreigners at Shan Hai Kwan are camping out primitively in the siege there about five miles from the gateway city, driven from their homes by the daily bombardment of Chang Tso Lin's artillery.

Thus far only one foreign residence in Shan Hai Kwan, which soon may be the scene of a decisive battle between Chang's troops and the Chi Li forces of Wu Pei Fu, has been struck by shells.

General Wu claims to have inflicted heavy casualties among the Manchurians in an engagement at Wang Chia Tun, in which the Chi Li army used armored cars in repulsing an attack.

HONESTY IN GOVERNMENT MADE ISSUE

DEMOCRATS THINK THEY HAVE PUSHED THIS TO THE FRONT

SAY OPENING HAS BEEN FURN-ISHED BY FORMER ATTY-
GEN. DAUGHERTY

(By United Press)
New York, Sept. 24.—"Honesty in government," which was made the big issue of the present campaign by John W. Davis, Democratic standard-bearer, has at last been converted from a forceful argument against the Republican administration into an actual issue, Democratic leaders believed today.

The opening has been furnished by former Attorney General Daugherty.

Eager to dramatize the issue, Davis seized the opportunity offered by Daugherty to emphasize instead of retract his statements regarding the former attorney general's administration of the Department of Justice.

At the same time Democratic chiefs rebuked their efforts to reopen the senate investigation of the Department of Justice. But in acting to force the issue they have been careful that the actual call for the special committee meeting should come from a Republican—Senator Brookhart, Iowa, who has indicated that he will assemble the committee and delve into the circumstances surrounding the repudiation of his sensational testimony by Gaston B. Means, former Department of Justice agent and star witness before the committee.

Runaway Girl Is Found
Chicago, Sept. 24.—A 16-year-old girl, who gave her name as Helen Rolleder of 726 Lake Boulevard, Milwaukee, was picked up by police as she was walking along the street here early today and held pending word from her parents.

Helen said she wanted a good time. She came here yesterday.

The affair, has told that he killed his wife for the love of Mrs. Sweeten, prays constantly and seems to feel "at peace with God."

Prosecutor Thompson said that he would ask the death penalty for Hight.

"It is a hanging case," he said.

"Both prisoners will be held in their respective places until the grand jury meets here October 13, unless conditions demand a change of plans," Thompson said.

Geneva, Sept. 24.—The cause of world disarmament under the auspices of the League of Nations has been measurably advanced by Germany's decision to enter the league at an early date, leaders of all delegations, including even the French, declared today.

The moment was most opportune, league spokesmen said, expressing their unanimous satisfaction felt at the decision of Germany to seek admission soon.

Inclusion in the league assembly on arbitration-security-disarmament pact will increase immensely the chances for its success, it is felt.

The president also declared it should be the aim of government administration to make contacts between the government and business "as few as possible."

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Peter Deneen, accused of helping John Moran, held as a suspect in the Rondout, Ill., mail robbery and a $35,000 mail robbery in South St. Paul, Minn., was to be arraigned before a United States commissioner here today.

Moran escaped while being taken from the Kane county jail at Sycamore, Ill., to Chicago for a hearing on a removal warrant, when accomplices fastened the deputy sheriff guarding him to a tree with his own handcuffs.

Deneen was arrested on a tip given to government authorities by his sister.

CLAIM WILBUR LOST A SPEECH NEAR DENVER

IN IT SECRETARY OF NAVY WAS WARM ESPOUSING LEAGUE OF NATIONS

CLAIMED HE WAS RECALLED BE-FORE HE COULD DELIVER
ADDRESS

(By United Press)
Washington, Sept. 24.—Administration circles today hummed with discussion of the alleged "betrayal" of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur by Senator Caraway, democrat, of Arkansas, who read to a local Davis-Bryan club a speech he said Wilbur was to have made at Denver last Saturday night, portraying Wilbur, through the speech, as having been an advocate of the League of Nations, apologizing for the republican foreign administration, and with having said that the negro question is the sole issue between the two old parties. Caraway charged that President Coolidge had recalled Wilbur from the coast to prevent delivery of the address.

Wilbur today refused to discuss the incident in any way.

"I will not discuss it. I will not be drawn into any controversy about the issue. If you want to speculate on the ethics of the act, you may, but I will not," Wilbur said.

Among the important passages quoted by Caraway from the speech were:

"I was and am a believer in the league. I believe that if we went into the league immediately upon the cessation of hostilities we might have saved Europe from bankruptcy. I therefore sympathized with Woodrow Wilson and his campaign for the League of Nations and I would rather now praise him than blame him for his attitude."

"I might say in passing that I am not now in favor of America entering the League of Nations. We have already suffered the disadvantages which would have arisen from keeping out of the League."

"There is only one issue in American politics—and that is the negro. The negro problem is what gives the democratic party its power in the solid South and it gives it some hope of success."

WHEELER HANDS PRAISE TO HIS OPPONENT DAVIS

LAUDS HIM FOR COURAGEOUS
STAND TAKEN AGAINST COR-
RUPT FORCES

REVIEWS DAWES' CAREER IN REGARD TO FINANCIAL AFFAIRS

Minneapolis, Sept. 24.—John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate, was lauded by his independent opponent, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, today for "the courageous stand he has taken against the corrupt forces of former Attorney General Daugherty."

Wheeler called upon all progressives to read the letter Davis sent to Daugherty in which the Democrat stated that corrupt officials were the worst foes of honest government.

"For myself, I appreciate it, not merely as an act of courtesy toward myself, but as an act of intelligence," Wheeler told a hotel luncheon audience here, "and I am more pleased to have this note of intelligence struck in the opposing camp than to have Mr. Davis say that he knows that this state of affairs exists. It expresses confidence in the work I undertook to carry through in Washington."

"If any part of the United States has been laboring under the red delusion concerning this simple movement of farmers, laborers, professional men and merchants to obtain a little honesty in our government, I think the Democratic candidate has helped materially to remove that delusion," Wheeler continued.

"But I want to warn you that you are in danger of getting another Daugherty, if ill fate should give you this man Dawes. The men and their possibilities at least are too much alike."

"They were the same in their careers and they are not essentially different."

Wheeler then reviewed Dawes' record which he has cited in previous speeches, with particular emphasis upon his alleged part in the Lorimer bank failure.

BIRTHPLACE OF INDEPENDENT MOVEMENT HERE

SEN. WHEELER CARRYING BAN-
NER OF FARMER-LABOR,
GOES TO MILL CITY

DAWES TO GIVE SEVERAL AD-
DRESSES, ONE IN ST. CLOUD
FRIDAY EVENING

(By United Press)
St. Paul, Sept. 24.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler and Charles G. Dawes headed into Minnesota today—birthplace of the independent movement. Senator Wheeler, carrying the banner of the farmer-labor forces, arrived here today and went to Minneapolis for four speeches. Tonight he will speak at the St. Paul auditorium.

Tomorrow General Dawes will be here and plans to make a number of rear platform speeches in towns along the way.

General Dawes has been reminded by republican leaders in the state that up to 1918 Minnesota was always counted in the republican column in national elections. The war, farmers' unrest, or something altered that reading.

Today the farmer-labor party is stronger in Minnesota than any other state. Minnesota has two farmer-labor senators in Washington—Henrik Shipstead and Magnus Johnson. Minnesota also has a trio of farmer-labor congressmen at the national capital.

Both the farmer-labor and republican campaign committees in the state are bending all their efforts toward a record vote and straight ticket balloting, and the democrats, who are always in the minority, are making their campaign this year an appeal for a straight ticket.

Indications are a record vote will be polled in November. Political prognosticators are forecasting a total vote of 900,000—which would exceed previous records by approximately 100,000 votes. Even with a record vote the balloting likely will be very close between President Coolidge and Senator LaFollette and between Senator Wheeler and General Dawes for vice-president.

WHEELER TAKES UP MEANS' REPUDIATION

With Senator Wheeler, en route to St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 24.—Sensational rumors concerning the Means' repudiation require that the Daugherty investigating committee reopen its hearings immediately, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, independent candidate for vice-president, announced today as he moved into Minnesota for a campaign through this favorable LaFollette state.

"I believe that the first story told by Gaston B. Means against former Attorney General Daugherty on the witness stand will prove true," Senator Wheeler declared.

"If Means has documentary evidence involving the highest government officials and the republican national committee, then these facts should be set before the public at once."

"Means and Daugherty should be called to the stand. Daugherty should be compelled to prove his charge that our witnesses were perjured. Means should be compelled to produce the letters he claims to have which involve the most important men in our government in the case surrounding his questionable repudiation of his previous testimony."

Wheeler said he had communicated with Senator Brookhart, chairman of the committee and Senator Ashurst, democratic member, urging that they call a session to hear new evidence.

A list of questions concerning Daugherty's personal finances while a government official already has been prepared. The candidate does not intend to cut into his scheduled tour to the Pacific but he will use every means to have the investigation reopened without his presence.

WHEELER HANDS PRAISE TO HIS OPPONENT DAVIS

LAUDS HIM FOR COURAGEOUS
STAND TAKEN AGAINST COR-
RUPT FORCES

REVIEWS DAWES' CAREER IN
AFFAIRS

Minneapolis, Sept. 24.—John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate, was lauded by his independent opponent, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, today for "the courageous stand he has taken against the corrupt forces of former Attorney General Daugherty."

Wheeler called upon all progressives to read the letter Davis sent to Daugherty in which the Democrat stated that corrupt officials were the worst foes of honest government.

"For myself, I appreciate it, not merely as an act of courtesy toward myself, but as an act of intelligence," Wheeler told a hotel luncheon audience here, "and I am more pleased to have this note of intelligence struck in the opposing camp than to have Mr. Davis say that he knows that this state of affairs exists. It expresses confidence in the work I undertook to carry through in Washington."

"If any part of the United States has been laboring under the red delusion concerning this simple movement of farmers, laborers, professional men and merchants to obtain a little honesty in our government, I think the Democratic candidate has helped materially to remove that delusion," Wheeler continued.

"But I want to warn you that you are in danger of getting another Daugherty, if ill fate should give you this man Dawes. The men and their possibilities at least are too much alike."

"They were the same in their careers and they are not essentially different."

Wheeler then reviewed Dawes' record which he has cited in previous speeches, with particular emphasis upon his alleged part in the Lorimer bank failure.

IN 1 DAY IN DULUTH

Duluth, Sept. 24.—Two million bushels of grain arrived here Tuesday, bespeaking prosperity in the Northwest. Records of 44 years were smashed when 1725 cars came into the twin ports—the largest receipts in the history of the Board of Trade. The largest previous record was 1350 cars, arriving in a single day, in September, 1915.

BIRTHPLACE OF INDEPENDENT MOVEMENT HERE

SEN. WHEELER CARRYING BAN-
NER OF FARMER-LABOR,
GOES TO MILL CITY

DAWES TO GIVE SEVERAL AD-
DRESSES, ONE IN ST. CLOUD
FRIDAY EVENING

(By United Press)
St. Paul, Sept. 24.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler and Charles G. Dawes headed into Minnesota today—birthplace of the independent movement. Senator Wheeler, carrying the banner of the farmer-labor forces, arrived here today and went to Minneapolis for four speeches. Tonight he will speak at the St. Paul auditorium.

Tomorrow General Dawes will be here and plans to make a number of rear platform speeches in towns along the way.

General Dawes has been reminded by republican leaders in the state that up to 1918 Minnesota was always counted in the republican column in national elections. The war, farmers' unrest, or something altered that reading.

Today the farmer-labor party is stronger in Minnesota than any other state. Minnesota has two farmer-labor senators in Washington—Henrik Shipstead and Magnus Johnson. Minnesota also has a trio of farmer-labor congressmen at the national capital.

Both the farmer-labor and republican campaign committees in the state are bending all their efforts toward a record vote and straight ticket balloting, and the democrats, who are always in the minority, are making their campaign this year an appeal for a straight ticket.

Indications are a record vote will be polled in November. Political prognosticators are forecasting a total vote of 900,000—which would exceed previous records by approximately 100,000 votes. Even with a record vote the balloting likely will be very close between President Coolidge and Senator LaFollette and between Senator Wheeler and General Dawes for vice-president.

WHEELER TAKES UP MEANS' REPUTATION

With Senator Wheeler, en route to St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 24.—Sensational rumors concerning the Means' repudiation require that the Daugherty investigating committee reopen its hearings immediately, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, independent candidate for vice-president, announced today as he moved into Minnesota for a campaign through this favorable LaFollette state.

"I believe that the first story told by Gaston B. Means against former Attorney General Daugherty on the witness stand will prove true," Senator Wheeler declared.

"If Means has documentary evidence involving the highest government officials and the republican national committee, then these facts should be set before the public at once."

"Means and Daugherty should be called to the stand. Daugherty should be compelled to prove his charge that our witnesses were perjured. Means should be compelled to produce the letters he claims to have which involve the most important men in our government in the case surrounding his questionable repudiation of his previous testimony."

Wheeler said he had communicated with Senator Brookhart, chairman of the committee and Senator Ashurst, democratic member, urging that they call a session to hear new evidence.

A list of questions concerning Daugherty's personal finances while a government official already has been prepared. The candidate does not intend to cut into his scheduled tour to the Pacific but he will use every means to have the investigation reopened without his presence.

THREE CIVIL WARS RAGING

CHINA GOING THROUGH PROCESS OF SURVIVAL OF FITTEST OF WARRING FACTIONS

By J. W. T. MASON

(United Press Staff Correspondent) (Written for the United Press)

Three different civil wars are now being waged in China, establishing a new world record in political partisanship. China is going through a process of survival of the fittest among her belligerent Tutchuns. The one who comes forth at the end with the most reserve power will be the winner provided the others have been so weakened that they cannot combine against him. It is this long proviso which has made the struggle for Chinese regeneration last so many years.

Now, however, with six military leaders in the field, there is a possibility that one of them will emerge from the scrimmage on top of the others. The leaders have tentatively combined three against three; but the combinations are only temporary. Each man is for himself and will break from his combination when he thinks the time has come for him to triumph.

The three domestic conflicts now operating are in the southern, northern and central provinces. In the south Sun Yat Sen, Provisional President of the South China Republic, is in revolt against all provincial governors who challenge his authority. In the north, Chang Tso Lin, governor of Manchuria, has declared war against Tsao Kun, President of China and Wu Pei Fu, governor of the great province of Chihli in which Peking is situated. In the center of China, Lu Yun Hsiang, governor of the province of Chekiang, immediately south of Shanghai, is engaged in hostilities against Chi Hsieh Yuan, governor of Kiangsu province where Shanghai is situated.

Chang, Lu and Sun are trying to co-operate and Tsao, Wu and Chi are endeavoring to come to a mutual agreement. But, each of the six desires his own preeminence to be recognized and insists on the others being subordinate to him. The only one of the six who has the courage to declare publicly this fact is Chang Tso Lin. He asserts his purpose is to make every Tutchun bow to him and he will not be content until they do. He has the best army in China; but also he has the largest combination of enemies against him, because he is the strongest governor of the present time in his country.

Whether Chang Tso Lin succeeds in dominating the situation and reorganizing China or not his way will be the way of the leader who eventually does so. China cannot engage in permanent reconstruction of her shattered political life unless the local conflicts among the provincial governors are brought to an end. It has been conclusively demonstrated that the authorities in Peking will never be able to suppress the Tutchuns while the presidency of China is held by a figure head, himself representing only one of the Tutchuns and possessing no national army. The presidency will have to pass to a Tutchun who not only is stronger than any of his rivals but also who has a sufficient military force of his own to suppress any possible combination against him.

Under the rule of such a chieftain compulsory peace will be forced on China and China will have no peace unless it is compulsory. Once peace endures without fear of interruption by an ambitious Tutchun, the Chinese will be able to begin reorganizing their government and ought to succeed in moving far along the road to progress. But, the prime requisite is a strong man who will be able to hold back the disturbers of traffic. His strength, however, must come in part from the permanent weakening of the others through exhausting strain of conflicts with one another. But, exhaustion through warfare in China, is a slow process. Sung, the Chinese military authority of the third century, a. d., declared that when an enemy is surrounded, he must be left one way of escape because cornered men fight desperately. This is still the Chinese rule and explains why exhaustion is so long coming to the recalcitrant Tutchuns.

The Dream of Columbus

What Christopher Columbus was seeking in 1492—a new and direct route to the east—was realized in 1914 when American engineers completed a narrow cut through the western hemisphere and permitted the ships of the world to pass through.

The tenth anniversary of the opening of the Panama canal to commerce occurred on Aug. 15, and, as if to demonstrate the rightness of its existence, the waterway last year surpassed its rival at the isthmus of Suez in the amount of shipping which it bore from one ocean to another.

The World war, the most destructive event of this century, opened a couple of weeks before the Panama canal—perhaps the most constructive undertaking—and during its course largely prevented the organization of new trade routes to profit by the waterway.

Only 4,000,000 tons of shipping passed through the canal in 1915, the first full year of operation. By 1920 this had increased to only 10,000,000 tons, but by 1923 the tonnage had jumped to 24,737,000, surpassing that of the Suez canal, which was 22,730,000.

The net operating profit of the Panama canal last year was $13,299,292. This does not mean that the waterway is earning money for Uncle Sam, because it cost nearly $500,000,000, the interest upon which at 4 per cent would come to $20,000,000.

At the rate which traffic is growing, however, this amount may be realized shortly, and meanwhile the canal is realizing the dream of Columbus, with a sweep and a magnitude of which he could not faintly conceive.—The Nation.

They annoyed me as they acted frequently and the secretions pained in passage and contained a sediment like brick dust. I also had untold misery in my back. There were sharp pains in my kidneys that felt as though someone had hit me. I had a dull ache across the small of my back and was tired all the time. I began using Doan's Pills and they relieved me. WHITTIER SCHOOL SHOWS INTEREST

Students, Teachers and Parent-Teachers Association Are Very Active

NEW PLAYGROUND EQUIPMENT

School Ranked 100 Per Cent in Junior Red Cross Drive Last Year

Much interest is manifest at the beginning of the school year at the Whittier building, by the teachers, the students and the parent-teachers association, as in evidenced by the following notes on the activities at this building:

The Parent-Teachers association has purchased some playground equipment which has just arrived. An out-door basketball ground will be laid out and the apparatus installed for the girls' use. A volley ball has been provided for the boys.

The school ranked one hundred per cent in the Junior Red Cross drive last year, and as a result each room is now enjoying its premium for this work, the Red Cross magazine and an interesting and attractive calendar.

It was thought advisable to send the small Eighth-B class from the Whittier building to the Washington building. The Seventh grade boys and girls are taking sewing and manual training at the Washington building each Wednesday morning.

New flower vases were presented to the beginners' room by an interested mother, and some very handsome displays of cut flowers have been brought to the room by various children.

Flower beds were very attractive at this building during the summer, and the Parent-Teachers association fell in line with other boosters of "Beautiful Brainerd" by placing and order for twenty peony bulbs to be used to the best possible advantage on the grounds for the coming year.

The interior of the Whittier building was entirely redecorated this summer and together with other changes made is a source of much gratification. Partitions between the two north rooms upstairs have been removed and in their place folding doors have been installed, made to swing back to throw the two rooms together to form an auditorium.

A room in the basement of the building has been remodeled for the use of the beginners' classes, and with its white walls and ceiling and gray floor, makes a delightful department. The room is not yet in use, awaiting new desks. It is hoped that the new desks, some blackboards, and the new light fixtures for the auditorium will have arrived so that the building will be entirely ready for inspection by October 14th, the date of the first Parent-Teachers meeting.

The pupils enjoyed an informed vacation of a few days shortly after school opened, when cold weather called for a furnace fire. New grates purchased for the furnace had not arrived, making it necessary to send the children home.

The normal training girls are spending a part of each day this week in observation work in the rooms of the Whittier building.

Invitations to a reception to all teachers of the city have been issued by the local W. C. T. U. to be held on Friday evening at the Methodist church.

Miss Hopper, of the second grade, has started table exhibition work again. This week elaborately decorated wigwags are on display, correlating with the class work on "Hiawatha."

Two clubs have been formed in the building, the Busy Bees in the fourth grade and the Little Citizens League in the sixth grade. The Busy Bees meet on the second and fourth Friday of each month, with the following officers in charge: president, Margaret Mahlum; vice president, Dorothy Opsahl; secretary, Allan McKay. The programs will be entirely in the hands of the children.

The officers of the Little Citizens League are, president, David Weber; vice president, Ross Olmsted; secretary, Evelyn Grimstad. The League will have charge of programs, parties and other activities of the class, as well as conducting regular meetings.

Pupils of the sixth grade have on exhibit some very good water color paintings of sweet peas.

In the beginners room, Miss Walsh learns something very interesting every day. After asking that the children try especially hard to do some rapid chart reading, little Bernice suggested, "If you want that read fast, you better let Franklin and me do it."

Parents are urged to become better acquainted with the school and its teachers and plan to attend its Parent-Teachers Association meetings, held on the second Tuesday in each month.

LET'S GET BACK TO EARTH

THE Duluth Herald recently published an editorial entitled "Let's Get Back to Earth" which certainly hits the nail on the head. The issue in this presidential campaign, said the Herald, is very simple. It is this:

Shall America settle down to steady going and regular meals and regular work, growing and building, prospering and progressing?

Or shall it go on a political and economic rampage, imitating, in a milder degree, what has happened in Russia?

Shall America get down to brass tacks with Coolidge?

Or shall it jazz around with La Follette and his following?

The war brought about a universal upheaval. There was no nation so isolated, no settlement so remote, that it wholly escaped the contagion of disorder.

What translated itself into chaos in Russia and disorder in the rest of Europe, translated itself in America into the various grades of desperation and radicalism that have centered, in this campaign, upon the candidacy of Mr. La Follette.

There was a world-wide breaking away from old moorings. There was unrest, unsettlement and upheaval. There was disturbance that ranged all the way from revolution, as in Russia, to mere vague irritation and dissatisfaction in America.

This country, perhaps, was affected least of all, but still it WAS affected by the same war-produced nervous disorder that gave most of Europe a sort of political St. Vitus dance.

This disorder is passing. Europe is well on the way toward recovery. The extremists there have shown thinking men and women everywhere the danger of extremism. In that, at least, they have done humanity a real service.

America is getting back to earth. The day for following after strange political gods is, for most Americans, about over. The day of jazz politics and jazz economics is near an end.

It is time for America to get down out of the air upon the solid ground and to clear a straight road for progress.

Can any reasoning American doubt that the way to do that is to get behind the cool, clear, calm and poised leadership of that most sane and sensible American, Calvin Coolidge?

Can any reasoning American doubt that following La Follette is to continue in the hazardous path that leads to heaven knows what lengths of upheaval and disorder?

Senator La Follette may not be a Socialist; but every Socialist in the country, every follower of the Marx doctrine of the proletarian revolution, is with him.

Senator La Follette may not deliberately intend to scrap the existing American system of government and industry, but every advocate of drastic and revolutionary change except a handful of wild-eyed Communists is back of him.

Americans have no business with these imported doctrines of upheaval and revolution, with fantastic schemes of burning down the barn to get rid of the rats.

The American system, born on American soil and devised and carried on by patriotic American minds and hearts, is capable of sound improvement, and it is good enough for Americans.

Shall Minnesota, with its rich stake in stable prosperity, with its thousands of comfortable homes in city and country, with its prosperous business enterprises, small and great, with its people depending for peace and prosperity upon steady profits and regular employment and good wages, run the risk of trying the hazardous enterprises of the miscellaneous cults that surround Mr. La Follette?

Or shall Minnesota, confident of his loyalty to the country and to the best interest of every man, woman and child in America, sure of his devotion to steady and ordered and sound progress, follow President Coolidge, the sound, calm, the righteous, the fair-minded, the just leader whose success in November means the continuance of the best traditions of American progress?

Shall Minnesota get down to brass tacks with Coolidge?

Or shall Minnesota jazz around with La Follette?

THE ORDINANCE AND TRANSIENT MERCHANT

JUDGE McCLENAHAN has declared unconstitutional the city ordinance relative to transient merchants. The ordinance declared invalid restricted the licensing of peddlers to the sale of certain commodities and refused a license for the sale of certain commodities.

Undoubtedly many are asking why the council should introduce an ordinance prohibiting outside concerns from selling in our city. The question is asked why, if these merchants save the people money, should they be disbarred.

First, it is seldom that they do save the purchasers money. Occasionally they may, but many a purchaser has realized later that their dream of saving was shattered when they compared quality with what the local merchant offers. The merchant has the ability to sell for a less expense than the great majority of transients, or house to house canvassers. This is the most expensive type of salesmanship.

Then, there is a question of fairness. Here is a merchant doing business the year 'round. His taxes are so high they startle when it is realized what he pays and pay he must for good and bad seasons. As a consequence he helps maintain the schools and the general organizations of our city. Besides, he is called upon to support every enterprise furthering the interests of our city either with time or money or both. He is on the job all the time and would be greatly missed were he eliminated.

The transient merchant comes in, pays a small fee for the time he actually operates, gathers in all the easy money he can, contributes nothing to the well being of our city and departs.

It is generally recognized that the municipality which taxes a local merchant so generously should protect him too and in many states protection is given from transient merchants and irresponsible canvassers.

Until such a time as this can be done legally, the loyalty of the average citizen should be for the local merchant.

BETTER sires for better economic farm conditions and peonies and other flowers for beauty of homes shows that Brainerd is balancing its advancement, paying attention to the practical and aesthetic.

OTHER PEOPLES' OPINIONS

IODINE AND GOITRE

In answer to the prevalence of goitre and the use of iodine as a preventive, the Dispatch has received this communication from Dr. E. C. Herzog, of Brainerd:

With the strong agitation which is being made with reference to iodizing the water and the salt used for table purposes it is time some consideration of the fundamentals back of the goitre incidence be looked at.

There is nothing more harmful to progress and more preventive of disease than these paternalistic attempts to force a whole population to take treatment for a condition that exists in perhaps less than fifty per cent of the population so treated. It is time the public should be awakened to the peril of such acts, for they establish precedents of a far-reaching character, which in the power of unscrupulous officials to order and enforce, may do incalculable harm.

In the first place the giving of inorganic iodine intended to act as a food is directly and distinctly contradictory to all the established principles of nutrition. If our food lacks iodine, why not stop denaturing it? Why not teach the public how to avoid such a condition, rather than officially compelling those who are not afflicted to under-go this poisoning process? Iodine is a dangerous drug. This is admitted even by those who are fostering this general iodizing of the whole population.

Suppose the drinking water of a community has been or is being iodized by this official poisoner, and those members of the community who have given some thought and attention to their food-intake are using natural foods supplying an abundance of this element to their bodies, are thus compelled to take into their bodies this inorganic poison for which they have no need and which they are unable to neutralize, what is going to happen to them?

In the goitrogenous regions the grocery stores are filled with iodized salt. The population naturally will buy it without a thought or even knowing it is iodized, though it is stated on the label. This salt is iodized to such a degree that the label expressly warns the user against the use of iodine in any other form. What is going to happen to the user of this salt who uses natural food that supplies abundantly all his iodine requirements? What is going to happen to those individuals who use salt excessively? What is going to happen to the children who are in addition fed iodized candy tablets by the school authorities—another practice that is likely to be abused?

There is just as great authority in the medical profession against this indiscriminate use of iodine as there is for it. It just happens that those for it got a little more "ethical" advertising than those who oppose it. And the public is forced to accept such dangerous practices without any recourse.

There is after all no real evidence that inorganic iodine can correct or prevent goitre. Tons of goitres are removed every year by the surgeons because nothing in drug therapy had been effective to stop the growth or correct the condition.

Unquestionably goitre is a deficiency disease, due fundamentally to the use of denatured and demineralized food. It is because of this demineralizing of the food supply that in the regions where mineral-free water is used for drinking purposes, the condition is more prevalent than in regions where the drinking water is not mineral-free. This means naturally that the blood is affected by the presence of minerals in the drinking water. Whether it is beneficially affected is another story. But that it is affected can be conclusively proved.

A teaspoonful of iodine in a glass of water would be rather a dangerous thing to take into the body. It would likely result in death very quickly, or at least in very serious poisoning.

No one could use Pluto Water as a regular drink.

Natural water is always mineral free, because it is rain water. Now when the food is robbed of its minerals (its life-elements) the body fed on such a substance is not properly replenished, and function begins to change. The various glandular secretions are modified. The thyroid gland is involved in the condition of goitre, because the blood stream has become depleted of its food elements (or the life-cells, and the whole functioning of the body becomes upset, with the thyroid gland running wild as it were in its operations.

Is it due to a shortage of iodine only? Who knows? Iodine deficiency may be a factor just as calcium deficiency may be one, or deficiency of phosphorus, or any of the other elements. But that it is a deficiency appears to be beyond doubt.

It is a principle in plant life that where one element is deficient in the soil, that deficiency limits the use of all the other elements, though they may be present in abundance. Hopkins has shown that this is true in animal life. All the research work relative to the vitamins has confirmed and demonstrated this fact. In the absence of one of the vitamins the whole metabolism is affected, but the absence of one or all of the vitamins is not one whit more serious than the absence of one of the sixteen elements on which life-continuity depends, or a depletion of the quantity of some of these elements.

That these elements do become depleted needs no proof. The only reason we eat is to replenish the blood with these elements. If we stop eating we die. We eat for replenishment and for that purpose only.

Now it has apparently not occurred to these apostles of iodine that there may not be a deficiency of iodine or that the deficiency of iodine may not be a dominating factor, and that the deficiency may be in some other element which makes unavailable the iodine. You can readily see this is pure guess-work on the part of the iodine advocates.

It is time mankind learned that it cannot with impunity juggle natural food and refine and denature, and demineralize and denature it. Of the five fundamentals of life, natural air, natural water, natural sleep, natural exercise and natural food, we not only accept four of them as nature provided them, but we refuse to accept them in any other form. One of them—food—we have step by step changed and doctored and combined until it is the exception rather than the rule for us to accept it as the natural thing.

We cannot take the iodine out of our food, and put back this mineral in a different and poisonous form in our water or our salt and comply with nature's requirements.

BIG CITY CHAPTER

No better illustration of the value of the Red Cross Life-Saving campaign can be found than in St. Louis, because for the first time since the Meramec river became the playground of the Missouri metropolis the half-way mark of the swimming season was reached with no drownings reported. This is a remarkable record, as in the past the Meramec river has annually taken a heavy toll of lives.

These results may be attributed to the value of the Red Cross water safety program and to the increasingly large number of men and women who understand Red Cross Life-Saving methods. As an illustration, during the season 24 rescues have been reported to the St. Louis Chapter by members of the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps.

Saves 12 On One Sunday
The most outstanding of these have been made by Norbert Raacke, a volunteer member, who was formerly Life-Saving representative of the Southwestern Division. Raacke has 18 rescues to his credit, 12 of which were made Sunday, July 27, at Lincoln Beach, the most popular place on the river. Nine of the rescues made on that day by Raacke involved a swim of at least 50 yards to reach the persons in danger and usually a tow of about 100 yards to bring them to shore, because of the current.

On the previous Sunday, J. P. Miller, another member of the Life-Saving Corps, made four rescues under similar circumstances.

Free Lances' Good Work

These Life-Savers and "free lances," in that the St. Louis Chapter now is not making an attempt to patrol the whole river, realizing that the problem lies in educating the individual in his own responsibility rather than patrol work. The number of efficient Life-Savers, however, graduated annually by the Chapter, make unofficially a very effective patrol for the Meramec river, as attested by results.

The Chapter is assisted in its Life-Saving campaign by the Meramec river patrol, a group of crack swimmers trained in First Aid.

For many years the history of tennis in the United States was practically identical with the history of tennis at the Newport Casino. It was there the first American court was built in 1875 and when, in 1881, the United States National Lawn Tennis association was organized in New York city, Newport was unanimously chosen as the logical place for holding the all-comers' championship each year.

Bullbat is a local name given to the nighthawk. Both the nighthawk and whippoorwill are nightjars. The markings on the throat of the nighthawk make it easily distinguished from the whippoorwill. GLOVE MAKER GIVES TESTI- MONY IN THE MAT- TER

GLAZED KIDS, IT IS SAID, WILL BE POPULAR IN THE FALL

By HEDDA DOTT
(Fashion Editor of the United Press)
(Written for the United Press)

New York, Sept. 24.—A member of one of America's largest glove firms claims that the hands of the Fair Sex have grown larger in the past 30 years. This authority remembers the days when gloves were sold by men clerks—the days when Mousquetaires, called "The Lantry" after the famous actress of that day, were the nth degree of fashion. These "Lantrys" were 12 and 16 button affairs which extended above the elbow and the ladies of that day carried little silver buttonhooks to button their arms into their gloves. Gallants deemed it a favor to fasten Milady's gloves after the last act at the theatre. "Many's the arm that's been pinched with a button-hook for love's sake," says this glove merchant.

In those days the best kid glove on the market cost a dollar and a quarter. And a size larger than six and a quarter was considered a disgrace. The few women who had larger hands blushed as they insisted upon being fitted into "normal" sizes by the handsome he-clerks.

Today the average hand requires a six and a half glove, although sevens and eights and a half are not at all unusual. Athletic sports are responsible for the increase in the size of women's hands. Gloves grow a shade wider every two or three years it is claimed.

Fall Gloves

Glazed kid will be popular again this fall. The fall shades will be tan, heaver, fawn, castor, stone gray and pearl gray. Turned-back cuffs and flared cuffs are styles sponsored for daywear. Appliques in contrasting or harmonizing colors will adorn the cuffs. Perforated cuff designs will also be popular. Colors used as decoration on the cuffs will also be carried out on the stitchery on the back of the hand.

Although glaze is considered just a bit smarter this season than suede there will be long gloves of gray or biscuit tones which are featured in suede. Just how popular these long gloves will be is a matter of conjecture as long gloves have been neglected for several seasons. Very few women wear evening gloves any more and afternoon occasions find women carrying gloves in their hands rather than wearing them. Cuff gloves have become so popular with short sleeved frocks that the long glove is almost forgotten.

Black and White Effects

Black and white effects are still popular in cuffed types where the stitching over the hand corresponds in color with the applique or stitching on the cuff. The all white glove is not so generally popular as it once was as the tendency is to match the glove with the stocking or shoe.

A few red and blue gloves of cuffed type are shown in the leading shops but so far they have not made an appearance on Fifth Avenue. The vogue for black costumes enlivened with bright red or blue introduced the vivid kid glove.

All wood shades will be worn this fall and grays follow second in preference.

Gauntlet gloves with cuffs beaded in tapestry effect are novel and are shown in several exclusive glove shops. Also leathers with burnt-in designs and handpainted designs are new.

Stunning Sports Glove

Among the passengers returning from Paris last week was an American girl who wore one of the latest tan camel's hair sports coats bordered in spotted leopard. Her tan gloves had wide flaring cuffs edged in clipped leopard fur.

CHANG MAY ESTABLISH MONARCHY

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
Washington, Sept. 24.—Under the yellow-tiled roofs of the forbidden city in Peking, an 18-year-old Manchurian boy is waiting to mount the Dragon throne as emperor of China. His name is Hsuan Tung.

Two hundred miles to the north-east, behind the great wall marking the boundary between Manchuria and the province of Chihli, a little man with a hawk's eyes and a fox's brain, Marshal Chang Tso Lin by name, is massing his troops to attack the capital.

If Peking falls, the boy may get his wish. But between Marshal Chang and a Chinese empire stands a tall man with a bullet-shaped head, closely cropped—Marshal Wu Pei Fu, the Celestial Gen. Pershing.

These two military leaders have met before. Once only two years ago when Marshal Chang tried to take Peking and took a drubbing; and once back in the days when Marshal Wu was a shavetail in the third division under Gen. Tsao Kun, now president of China. Then Chang was the terror, the Pancho Villa, of Manchuria; and that time he outwitted Wu.

Today the score stands one and one, as they match their strength again—Wu, a scholar of the first rank who took his A. B. at the age of 21, now the official war lord of China; and Chang, who began life an illiterate bandit scourge of the hills, now dictator and war lord of Manchuria.

Wu has behind him the recognized government of his country, with such army and equipment as the government boasts. Chang has the help of a former American diplomat, Edward Carleton Baker, a Californian and ex-assistant chief of the far eastern division of the state department here. Plus the sub-rosa friendship of Japan.

Marshal Chang is a human tiger and has the scruples of one. He takes anything he wants, if he can get away with it. That's how he rose from an oriental Jesse James to Manchuria's tin king—he stuck up China and stole Manchuria precisely as he had once stuck up villages and carried off the loot.

Extremely ambitious, there is no telling what he is after now. Once it was his ambition to be vice-president. Later his desire was to be warlord of all China under an emperor. That was when he backed Pres. Yuan Shih-Kai in the latter's dash for the throne in 1916. When Yuan met with obstacles and Chang saw Yuan faltering, he withdrew his support. He is not the one to put his money on a loser.

Marshal Chang may now be aiming at the presidency. But his aim for pomp and power may lead him—in case he defeats Wu, takes Peking and ousts Pres. Tsao Kun—to lift the waiting son of heaven and lord of ten thousand years, Hsuan Tung, to the throne.

Chang, of course, would then become viceroy, greater than president, with the Manchu emperor as his tool.—St. Paul Daily News.

RICH OSAGE INDIANS ADOPT WHITE WAYS

LOSING TRIBAL DISTINCTION IN FOLLOWING WAYS OF PALE FACES

(By United Press)
Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 24.—The summer rounding to a close, their quarterly payment from the government thoroughly distributed among the amusement houses of the city—tired of the high-speed frolic they have been enjoying since the last fountain of gold sprinkled into their coffers—the Osage Indians are going home.

Times "ain't what they used 'ter be" with the Osages. Blanketed old bucks and squaws who have refused to yield to the social temptations that ill times have befallen their tribe. And the while, young bucks and young squaws—frequently white squaws—their steps tuned to the gaities of their wealthy white neighbors have scattered from the old camp ground.

The younger generation of Osages are fast losing their tribal distinction. Dressed in fashions, staying at high class hotels, eating at exclusive restaurants, they seldom see their older relatives who despite the times, continue to cling to their teepees and the simple life of yore.

Purring motors of ultra-modern limousines, heading back to the hunting grounds of Oklahoma, bespeak the end of the annual pilgrimage of some 400 Osages to Colorado Springs and surrounding resorts in the Rockies.

Back to await the next allotment of gold from the government and the next pilgrimage the Osages will "rest up" in their homes in Osage county until it is time to saunter forth into winter pleasure resorts.

Thrifty Wife Sells Shoe

Shortly after a traveling man returned from a long road trip he went to his closet to get out his light summer suit and white shoes. He could find but one shoe. He asked his wife about the missing shoe, but got no information. Inquiring further, he learned from his daughter that the wife had sold one of the shoes to a one-legged man who had called at the door.—Kansas City Star.

PUBLIC IS URGED TO HELP SPEED SERVICE

HOLIDAY SEASON APPROACHING AND POSTOFFICE WORKERS PREPARE FOR RUSH

With the holiday season just around the corner, postmasters throughout the nation are receiving from the post office department instructions as to certain classes of mails which are objectionable and which delay the expedition of the mails. This information is being passed on to the public in order that they may co-operate in eliminating these classes of mail to the greatest possible extent.

Special emphasis is laid on the use of small cards or envelopes. These are too small for the cancellation machines and in this way tie up the work.

The specifications of the postoffice department state that no correspondence should be written on anything smaller than at least 2 3/4 by 4 inches.

Another cause of considerable trouble is remailing a package or letter coming to the wrong address on the parcel and simply add the new one to the great confusion of the postal officials, who are unable to tell for whom the mail is actually intended. Many send the package without additional postage, forgetting that the postoffice can not accept this kind of mail.

In corresponding or sending packages people should be careful to fulfill all the necessary details and by so doing will help postoffice officials out of much of the trouble which comes from carelessness, particularly during the busy seasons.

"Cut Your Weeds," Says Commissioner Holmberg in Bulletin

In parts of the State frost has been severe enough to kill all vegetation—even the weeds have been in part or wholly destroyed. In still other parts of Minnesota frost will be delayed and plants will continue to grow.

"No use now to go to any expense or trouble to cut weeds. They have been or soon will be killed by frost," this is a common expression. But it is as erroneous as it is common. Fact is there never was a better chance to kill weeds than right now. Weed seeds by the millions will be matured between now and freezing weather in October and November. On the other hand, peculiar to fall conditions, many seeds are still held on the plant and can be destroyed. Thus, a goodly portion of the 1925 weeds may be prevented from materializing by cutting and burning the weeds now found in the fields, along the roads, in waste places and in yards. Many a field has been infested with noxious weeds by thoughtlessly hauling weed infested barnyard or paddock cleaning in the fall of the year.

Owing to the lateness of the season this year much remains possible to do to kill weeds. Canada thistles are yet in bloom. So are many other noxious weeds. Cut them down and burn them. Disc the stubble lands, mow and burn the weeds and brush on the road sides. And then! everyone has seen patches of weeds left standing in grain fields because the farmers didn't want to harvest them along with the grain. Mow these down and burn them. Don't think of plowing under all the weed seeds to be found in such places.

Clean up around where the separator stood. Do not haul the "clean up" into the field or barn yard where later all its weed seeds will find a way to the field in manure. Haul it to some "dump" or otherwise keep it safe from getting scattered in the fields. A farmer should clean house every fall just as religiously as the woman cleans house each year in the fall.

The town chairman is the local inspector. Let the people co-operate with him in fighting weeds, notify him when weed patches are being left uncut or otherwise destroyed. October 15th is the date set by the law as the last day of the weed season. Roads, streets, and alleys, as well as public grounds in villages and cities should be cleaned up—the weeds cut and destroyed. It will help the traffic in winter when snows are inclined to drift and fill thoroughfare. If weeds are allowed to stand aound to collect it. Do it now.

N. J. HOLMBERG,
Commissioner of Agriculture.

The doctor was about to conclude this letter with a recipe for "Making a Good Wife," but he broke off and wrote this instead:

"Pshaw, an acquaintance of mine, a young lady of Litchfield, knows how to make this dish better than any other person in the world and she has promised to treat me with it some time."

A Romance of the Spanish Main CAPTAIN BLOOD By RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.
"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS

Peter Blood, a rebel-convict under King James, becomes a buccaneer with headquarters at Tortuga. He is in love with Arabella Bishop and has rescued Madelon d'Ogeron, daughter of the governor of Tortuga. This insures him ships and men for his enterprises. King James sends to the West Indies Lord Julian Wade as an emissary to make peace with piracy. Arabella is on the same ship, the Royal Mary.

CHAPTER XVI—Continued

Lord Julian hailed her advent with satisfaction. His lordship was one of your gallants to whom existence that is not graced by woman-kind is more or less of a stagnation. And Miss Arabella Bishop was a young woman and a lady; and in the latitude into which Lord Julian had strayed this was a phenomenon sufficiently rare to command attention. On his side, with his title and position, his personal grace and the charm of a practiced courtier, he bore about him the atmosphere of the great world in which normally he had his being—a world that was little more than a name to her, who had spent most of her life in the Antilles. It is not therefore wonderful that they should have been attracted to each other before the Royal Mary was warped out of St. Nicholas. Each could tell the other much upon which the other desired information. Considering how his mind was obsessed with the business of his mission, it is not wonderful that he should have come to talk to her of Captain Blood. Indeed, there was a circumstance that directly led to it.

"I wonder now," he said, as they were sauntering on the poop, "if you ever saw this fellow Blood, who was at one time on your uncle's plantations as a slave."

"I saw him often. I knew him very well."

"Ye don't say!" and came to lean beside her. "And what manner of man did you find him?"

"In those days I esteemed him for an unfortunate gentleman."

"You were acquainted with his story?"

"He told it me. That is why I esteemed him—for the calm fortitude with which he bore adversity. Since then, considering what he has done, I have almost come to doubt if what he told me of himself was true."

"If you mean of the wrongs he suffered at the hands of the Royal Commission that tried the Monmouth rebels, there's little doubt that it would be true enough. He was never out with Monmouth; that is certain. He was convicted on a point of law which he may well have been ignorant when he committed what was construed into treason. But, faith, he's had his revenge, after a fashion."

"That," she said in a small voice, "is the unforgivable thing. It has destroyed him—deservedly."

"Destroyed him?" His lordship laughed a little. "Be none so sure of that. He has grown rich, I hear. He has translated, so it is said, his Spanish spoils into French gold, which is being treasured up for him in France. His future father-in-law, M. d'Ogeron, has seen to that."

"His future father-in-law?" said she, and stared at him round-eyed, with parted lips. Then added: "M. d'Ogeron? The Governor of Tortuga?"

"The same. You didn't know?"

She shook her head without replying. After a moment she spoke, her voice steady and perfectly controlled.

"But surely, if this were true, there would have been an end to his piracy by now. If he ... if he loved a woman and was betrothed, and was also rich as you say, surely he would have abandoned this desperate life, and ..."

"Why, so I thought," his lordship interrupted, "until I had the explanation. D'Ogeron is avaricious for himself and for his child. And as for the girl, I'm told she's a wild piece, fit mate for such a man as Blood. Almost I marvel that he doesn't marry her and take her aroving with him. It would be no new experience for her. And I marvel, too, at Blood's patience. He killed a man to win her."

"He killed a man for her, do you say?" There was horror now in her voice.

"Yes—a French buccaneer named Levasseur. He was the girl's lover and Blood's associate on a venture. Blood coveted the girl, and killed Levasseur to win her. Pah! It's an unsavoury tale, I own. But men live by different codes out in these parts ..."

She had turned to face him. She was pale to the lips, and her hazel eyes were blazing, as she cut into his apologies for Blood.

"They must, indeed, if his other associates allowed him to live after that."

"Oh, the thing was done in fair fight, I am told."

"Who told you?"

"A man who sailed with them, a Frenchman named Cahusac, whom I found in a waterside tavern in St. Nicholas. He was Levasseur's lieutenant, and he was present on the island where the thing happened, and when Levasseur was killed."

"And the girl? Did he say the girl was present, too?"

"Yes. She was a witness of the encounter. Blood carried her off when he had disposed of his brother-buccaneer."

"And the dead man's followers allowed it?" He caught the note of incredulity in her voice, but missed the note of relief with which it was blent. "Oh, I don't believe the tale. I won't believe it!"

"I honor you for that, Miss Bishop. It strained my own belief that men should be so callous, until this Cahusac afforded me the explanation. Blood purchased their consent, and his right to carry the girl off. He paid them in pearls that were worth more than twenty thousand pieces of eight." His lordship laughed again with a touch of contempt. "A handsome price!"

"Your Cahusac seems to have been accurate enough. Alas!"

"You are sorry, then?"

"As we are sorry to hear of the death of one we have esteemed. Once I held him in regard for an unfortunate but worthy gentleman. Now ... Such a man is best forgotten."

And upon that she passed at once to speak of other things.

The friendship which it was her great gift to command in all she met grew steadily between those two in the little time remaining, until the event befell that marred what was promising to be the pleasantest stage of his lordship's voyage.

The marplot was the mad-dog Spanish admiral, whom they encountered on the second day out, when half way across the Gulf of Gonaves. A shot from the Milagrosa got among some powder stored in the Royal Mary's forecastle and blew up half the ship almost before the fight had started. Before the men of the Royal Mary had recovered from their consternation, their captain killed and a third of their number destroyed with him, the ship, yawing and racking helplessly in a crippled state, the Spaniards boarded her.

In the captain's cabin, under the poop, to which Miss Bishop had been conducted for safety, Lord Julian was seeking to comfort and encourage her, with assurances that all would yet be well, at the very moment when Don Miguel was stepping aboard. Fortunately, Miss Bishop did not appear to be in desperate need of the poor comfort he was in case to offer. The cabin door flew open and Don Miguel strode in. Lord Julian span round to face him and clapped a hand to his sword.

The Spaniard was brisk and to his point.

"Don't be a fool," he said in his own tongue, "or you'll come by a fool's end. Your ship is sinking. Come, all of you, aboard my ship." Don Miguel invited them, and strode out.

As for the survivors in that ghastly shambles that had been the Royal Mary, they were abandoned by the Spaniards to their own resources. Let them take to the boats, and if those did not suffice them, let them swim or drown. If Lord Julian and Miss Bishop were retained, it was because Don Miguel perceived their obvious value. He received them in his cabin.

Lord Julian commanded himself with difficulty to supply them. Then haughtily he demanded to know, in his turn, the name of their aggressor.

MINNESOTA JUNIORS WIN HIGHEST HONORS AT SIOUX CITY FAIR

Minnesota club boys and girls scored heavily at the Interstate Fair at Sioux City, Iowa, last week.

The Minnesota home economics team, composed of Rose Perhai and Erna Gronberg of Buhl, St. Louis county, breadmakers, won the grand championship at Sioux City as the best demonstration team in any field. At the State Fair in Minnesota the two girls won over 101 teams and at Sioux City were the best of 21 champion teams from 11 states.

"It was the best demonstration by a club team I have ever seen, said Miss Gertrude Warren of the office of extension work, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

The two girls from Buhl also won the food judging contest which was held this year for the first time. Eight teams took part and four classes of canned goods, two classes of bread, and two classes of other baked products were judged.

Milo Hichter of Stewartville, member of the all-livestock judging team from Minnesota, entered the health contest and stood at the top with the extraordinary score of 98.9 points. For canning exhibits the Minnesota boys and girls won the two firsts, one second and one third. The Minnesota potato exhibit was first, with Nebraska second. In the clothing competition the Minnesota juniors took one second place position and two third place positions.

After winning the contest among the home economics team, the two Minnesota breadmakers were pitted against the best team of boys demonstrating in the agricultural class. This team was from South Dakota and demonstrated dry picking and packing of poultry. Minnesota's poultry team of boys from Buhl scored sixth place in the agricultural class. The Minnesota livestock judging team was given eighth place.

Judges of the contests were Miss Neva Stephenson, assistant state club leader from Indiana, and Ray Turner of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington. The Minnesota juniors were accompanied to Sioux City by Miss Velma Slocum of University Farm, Carl C. Anderson and Miss Edna Bender of Buhl, and County Agent Julius Aussen of Olmstead county. Rose Perhai of the champion Minnesota team was elected secretary of War Eagle camp at the Interstate Fair and will be the guest in 1925 of the Sioux City fair board.

Machines Replace Telegraph Operators

Montreal, Sept. 24.—The strike of the telegraphers of the Canadian Press, which has been on for 10 days was temporarily halted when the men were notified by the heads of their union that they might return to work.

The employers state, however, that many of the men will be without employment as the automatic telegraph has been installed in some of the offices to do the work hitherto performed by Morse telegraphers.

Legend of the Wagtail

Here is a pretty Portuguese legend of the wagtail: "When the Virgin fled into Egypt with the infant Christ, a wagtail followed, obliterating the trail by brushing away with its tail the donkey's footprints. Our Lady therefore blessed it, giving it the power to kill the hawk by attacking it under the wing."

"If It's Printing We Do It"

A Romance of the Spanish Main CAPTAIN BLOOD by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS

Peter Blood, a rebel-convict under King James, becomes a buccaneer with headquarters at Tortuga. He is in love with Arabella Bishop and has rescued Madelon d'Ogeron, daughter of the governor of Tortuga from Levasseur, a French ruffian. This insures him ships and men for his enterprises. King James sends to the West Indies Lord Julian Wade as an emissary to make peace with piracy. Arabella is on the same ship, the Royal Mary.

Lord Julian hailed her advent with satisfaction. His lordship was one of your gallants to whom existence that is not graced by woman-kind is more or less of a stagnation. And Miss Arabella Bishop was a young woman and a lady; and in the latitude into which Lord Julian had strayed this was a phenomenon sufficiently rare to command attention. On his side, with his title and position, his personal grace and the charm of a practiced courtier, he bore about him the atmosphere of the great world in which normally he had his being—a world that was little more than a name to her, who had spent most of her life in the Antilles. It is not therefore wonderful that they should have been attracted to each other before the Royal Mary was warped out of St. Nicholas. Each could tell the other much upon which the other desired information. Considering how his mind was obsessed with the business of his mission, it is not wonderful that he should have come to talk to her of Captain Blood. Indeed, there was a circumstance that directly led to it.

Lord Julian was seeking to comfort and encourage her.

"I wonder now," he said, as they were sauntering on the poop, "if you ever saw this fellow Blood, who was at one time on your uncle's plantations as a slave."

"I saw him often. I knew him very well."

"Ye don't say!" and came to lean beside her. "And what manner of man did you find him?"

"In those days I esteemed him for an unfortunate gentleman."

"You were acquainted with his story?"

"He told it me. That is why I esteemed him—for the calm fortitude with which he bore adversity. Since then, considering what he has done, I have almost come to doubt if what he told me of himself was true."

"If you mean of the wrongs he suffered at the hands of the Royal Commission that tried the Monmouth rebels, there's little doubt that it would be true enough. POTATO GROWERS DISTRICT MEETING

Aim to Organize a Central Warehousing Corporation For Section Including Brainerd

14 COUNTIES IN OUR SECTION

Board of Directors Elected, to Have Supervision of Housing and Loading Crop

The Minnesota Potato Growers Exchange held a district meeting in the farmers room at the court house on Tuesday afternoon. The purpose of the meeting was to organize a central warehousing corporation for the northern district, which includes Brainerd.

The state is to be divided into three such districts. The western district will comprise the counties in the Red river valley, and the eastern district will include the east section of the state with some of the southern counties. There are thirty-three counties in the state whose farmers belong to the potato growers exchange.

The central warehousing corporation for the northern district will include the counties of Crow Wing, Cass, Itasca, Beltrami, Hubbard, Clearwater, Wadena, Todd, Morrison, Aitkin, Polk, Stearns, Douglas and Benton.

The board of directors for this district corporation was elected at the Brainerd meeting on Tuesday afternoon, and consists of H. Arnold, Beltrami county, A. H. Hart, Long Prairie, E. H. Reff, Clearwater county, John O'Brien, Douglas county and Frank Gran, Itasca county.

This board of directors will have the supervision of the warehousing and loading of the potato crop of all members of the exchange in this district. Managers at each warehouse and loading station will work under the direction of this board.

The potato crop will start to move in the near future, and the directors will secure managers for the various depots as soon as possible, so that there may be no delay in the handling of the crop.

LITTLE BOY LOST

Russell Fitzsimmons, Age 2 Years, Caused Deep Anxiety for Parents

Some little commotion was caused on Tuesday morning, when Russell Fitzsimmons, Jr., 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fitzsimmons, 624 North Fifth street, started out to see the world, and a search of over an hour was made before the little fellow was located at the home of Rudolph Peterson, 317 North Broadway. A careful hunt of the neighborhood failed to locate Russell, and school children were asked to keep watch for him when they went home to dinner. It was from this source that he was found just after 12 o'clock, playing with a little girl in Mr. Peterson's back yard.

There will be choir rehearsal this Wednesday evening. The ladies chorus at seven o'clock and the large chorus at 7:30 o'clock. All members are especially asked to be on time. Attention is called to the Folinger-Berggren concert, which will be held on Saturday evening.

RED CROSS

CHAPTER MEETS

R. G. Harte of Pequot Named to Fill Place of Mrs. W. H. Gemmell, Resigned

COUNTY NURSE REPORT READ

Chapter Voices Sentiment in Favor of Retention of the Nurse's Services

The directors of the Brainerd Chapter of the American Red Cross held a special meeting on Monday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce, called to order at 3:30 o'clock by the chairman, Mrs. J. A. Thabes. The following directors were present: Mrs. W. C. Mannis, Mrs. Bertha Thelviot, Mrs. C. W. Rowley, Mrs. W. H. Cleary, Miss Ada Dye, George D. LaBar, Henry I. Cohen, O. A. Peterson and G. W. Chadbourne. A number of interested visitors were also present. The first order of business was the filling of the vacancy on the board made by the removal of Mrs. W. H. Gemmell from the city. R. G. Harte, of Pequot, was appointed by the chairman to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Gemmell.

A communication was read from the Deerwood sanitarium, asking for donations for the sanitarium radio fund. On motion duly carried, the Brainerd chapter donated $10 to this fund.

Miss Thora Ingebritson, county nurse, read her report covering the period from October 1, 1923, to September 1, 1924.

The question of carrying on the work of the nurse in the rural districts was thoroughly discussed. From many remote districts of the county the plea is coming in for the maintaining of this service.

At the last meeting of the board of county commissioners, it was voted to discontinue the work of the nurse, after October 1st, on recommendation of Dr. R. A. Beise, newly appointed health officer.

The directors of the Red Cross feel that this is a step backward along the lines of progressive health work, and that it is exceedingly unfortunate that the financial help of the county was withdrawn just when the people throughout the rural districts had come to look upon the nurse's service as an established institution, and especially at this time of the year when the schools are just getting well started and the dangers from contagious diseases are much greater than during the summer months.

One man present at the meeting from the north end of the county made the statement that the work of the nurse had more than paid for her salary in the saving she had made possible in the poor funds appropriations through the different township boards, to say nothing of the detail and worry that the nurse had relieved them of, in caring for their cases. This was looking at the matter from a new angle for the board.

Another item of interest that was brought out was that when the nurse gave her report to the board it was shown that as a result of the orthopedic (crippled children) clinic recently held at the court house, 43 crippled children and five adults suffering with deformities were examined, and out of this number 39 will receive care at the hospital for crippled children at Phalen park, St. Paul. Five have already been taken to the hospital, and the remaining 25 have been admitted and will be taken by the nurse in the near future. The board feels that this is a most worthwhile work, and that the nurse should be retained.

The Red Cross and many of the earnest thinking people of the rural communities feel the need for the nurse so keenly that the directors voted to again take over the work, with the possible co-operation of one other organization. The chapter hopes to have the support and kindly interest of the whole county in their effort to maintain this much needed health service.

The "dirt farmer" Senator who was elected to serve the unexpired term of the late Knute Nelson has beyond a doubt received more newspaper mention than any other one member of Congress.

Mr. Johnson is a forceful speaker and is making a strong bid for re-election to the upper house.

SENIORS DECIDE MOMENTOUS MATTER

"This ring or that ring, that is the question."

The Seniors almost wore out the two rings that were submitted for their inspection by the class ring committee, but after an urgent request from President Lyndon for a final decision, the class voted for a gold ring, the design of which is of hexagonal shape, with a black border inclosing the letters B. H. S. with year, 1925 set on opposite sides of the hexagon. The rings are very distinguished in appearance, causing the class to look forward to their arrival, which will be sometime in November, a much earlier time than in previous years.

REGISTERING PIANO

Demonstration Concert of Gulbransen Piano to be Given Early This Fall

George E. King, of Des Moines, Iowa, a representative of the Gulbransen Co., of Chicago, was in the city on Tuesday conferring with the Hall Music House with a view toward putting on a fall demonstration concert in the near future.

At this concert the Gulbransen registering piano will be featured, something rarely attempted with a player piano. But this is said to be more than just a player instrument for it can be operated in a truly musical way, with all the expression and feeling that the individual cares to put into it. This flexibility in expression has given it the title of a registering piano.

Mr. King hopes to demonstrate this instrument, several models of which are already on display at the Hall Music House, to Brainerd music lovers at his demonstration concert. He asserts that he can interpret exactly the compositions of various well-known composers, as they would be interpreted by a skilled pianist playing in the ordinary manner.

Many people have heard Mr. King in concert work broadcasted over the radio. He is a musician of no mean ability and is well worth hearing. He seemed very favorably impressed with Brainerd, this being his first trip to the city, and said that he felt there would be a very large number of music lovers turn out to hear his concert.

WIENER ROAST AT COUNTRY CLUB

About sixty members of the Brainerd Country Club enjoyed a wiener roast at the club house on Tuesday afternoon from five to six o'clock.

The necessities for this affair were donated by Mons Mahlum, and the roast served by the social committee. Many members of the club took advantage of the day and were on the links during the afternoon, playing until time for the refreshments at five o'clock.

This will probably be the last outdoor social activity of the club for this season, but the grounds will be open and no doubt in use until snow flies. The links were never in better condition than at present, it is reported, and with ideal weather, golf will be very popular this fall.

POTATO GROWERS DISTRICT MEETING

Aim to Organize a Central Warehousing Corporation For Section Including Brainerd

14 COUNTIES IN OUR SECTION

Board of Directors Elected, to Have Supervision of Housing and Loading Crop

The Minnesota Potato Growers Exchange held a district meeting in the farmers room at the court house on Tuesday afternoon. The purpose of the meeting was to organize a central warehousing corporation for the northern district, which includes Brainerd.

The state is to be divided into three such districts. The western district will comprise the counties in the Red river valley, and the eastern district will include the east section of the state with some of the southern counties. There are thirty-three counties in the state whose farmers belong to the potato growers exchange.

The central warehousing corporation for the northern district will include the counties of Crow Wing, Cass, Itasca, Beltrami, Hubbard, Clearwater, Wadena, Todd, Morrison, Aitkin, Polk, Stearns, Douglas and Benton.

The board of directors for this district corporation was elected at the Brainerd meeting on Tuesday afternoon, and consists of H. Arnold, Beltrami county, A. H. Hart, Long Prairie, E. H. Reff, Clearwater county, John O'Brien, Douglas county and Frank Gran, Itasca county.

This board of directors will have the supervision of the warehousing and loading of the potato crop of all members of the exchange in this district. Managers at each warehouse and loading station will work under the direction of this board.

The potato crop will start to move in the near future, and the directors will secure managers for the various depots as soon as possible, so that there may be no delay in the handling of the crop.

LITTLE BOY LOST

Russell Fitzsimmons, Age 2 Years, Caused Deep Anxiety for Parents

Some little commotion was caused on Tuesday morning, when Russell Fitzsimmons, Jr., 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fitzsimmons, 624 North Fifth street, started out to see the world, and a search of over an hour was made before the little fellow was located at the home of Rudolph Peterson, 317 North Broadway.

A careful hunt of the neighborhood failed to locate Russell, and school children were asked to keep watch for him when they went home to dinner. It was from this source that he was found just after 12 o'clock, playing with a little girl in Mr. Peterson's back yard.

RED CROSS

CHAPTER MEETS

R. G. Harte of Pequot Named to Fill Place of Mrs. W. H. Gemmell, Resigned

COUNTY NURSE REPORT READ

Chapter Voices Sentiment in Favor of Retention of the Nurse's Services

The directors of the Brainerd Chapter of the American Red Cross held a special meeting on Monday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce, called to order at 3:30 o'clock by the chairman, Mrs. J. A. Thabes. The following directors were present: Mrs. W. C. Mannis, Mrs. Bertha Theviot, Mrs. C. W. Rowley, Mrs. W. H. Cleary, Miss Ada Dye, George D. LaBar, Henry I. Cohen, O. A. Peterson and G. W. Chadbourne. A number of interested visitors were also present. The first order of business was the filling of the vacancy on the board made by the removal of Mrs. W. H. Gemmell from the city. R. G. Harte, of Pequot, was appointed by the chairman to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Gemmell.

A communication was read from the Deerwood sanitarium, asking for donations for the sanitarium radio fund. On motion duly carried, the Brainerd chapter donated $10 to this fund.

Miss Thora Ingebritson, county nurse, read her report covering the period from October 1, 1923, to September 1, 1924.

The question of carrying on the work of the nurse in the rural districts was thoroughly discussed. From many remote districts of the county the plea is coming in for the maintaining of this service.

At the last meeting of the board of county commissioners, it was voted to discontinue the work of the nurse, after October 1st, on recommendation of Dr. R. A. Beise, newly appointed health officer.

The directors of the Red Cross feel that this is a step backward along the lines of progressive health work, and that it is exceedingly unfortunate that the financial help of the county was withdrawn just when the people throughout the rural districts had come to look upon the nurse's service as an established institution, and especially at this time of the year when the schools are just getting well started and the dangers from contagious diseases are much greater than during the summer months.

One man present at the meeting from the north end of the county made the statement that the work of the nurse had more than paid for her salary in the saving she had made possible in the poor funds appropriations through the different township boards, to say nothing of the detail and worry that the nurse had relieved them of, in caring for their cases. This was looking at the matter from a new angle for the board.

Another item of interest that was brought out was that when the nurse gave her report to the board it was shown that as a result of the orthopedic (crippled children) clinic recently held at the court house, 43 crippled children and five adults suffering with deformities were examined, and out of this number 30 will receive care at the hospital for crippled children at Phalen park, St. Paul. Five have already been taken to the hospital, and the remaining 25 have been admitted and will be taken by the nurse in the near future. The board feels that this is a most worth while work, and that the nurse should be retained.

The Red Cross and many of the earnest thinking people of the rural communities feel the need for the nurse so keenly that the directors voted to again take over the work, with the possible co-operation of one other organization. The chapter hopes to have the support and kindly interest of the whole county in their effort to maintain this much needed health service.

NO MATCH IN SIGHT FOR JACK DEMPSEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 24.—After several convincing examples given the boxing public in the last two years, it seems that a new heavyweight champion will arrive, not when a challenger has been built up, but when Jack Dempsey falls down to the level of an ordinary rival.

Dempsey is in the same position that Jim Jeffries found himself several years ago, when he was forced to go back to the farm because there was no heavyweight left for him to fight.

The present champion, however, is playing in harder luck than the former title-holder, because in Jeffries' time the championship was not a million-dollar asset and there was no system of building up a challenger to fool the public as there is today.

The unusual scarcity of heavyweights good enough to be steamed up into challenger material is evidenced most strikingly in the admission of Tex Rickard that he has failed to find a heavyweight good enough to risk the money that is necessary to put over a show in which the champion takes a part.

Rickard was very gloomy about future business prospects after Harry Wills and Luis Angel Firpo had made such a mess out of the fight in Jersey City that was staged for the purpose of finding an opponent for Dempsey in the next championship bout.

Wills had the finest chance of his life to make a showing that would force a promoter to arrange a match for him with the champion. He had everything to gain and nothing to lose. Wills did win the fight, of course, but he made such a bad showing that more than 40,000 paid customers, who support big boxing, left the arena firm in the conviction that Wills couldn't go more than a round with the Dempsey of the Firpo fight.

There is no question that Wills did prove himself the outstanding challenger for the championship. But at the same time he showed himself to be a very poor one. He is entitled to a bout with Dempsey because he is the only one of the contending bunch that has never been beaten by the champion.

Good as he may be, Wills never was an interesting fighter. He has never given a good fight around New York and he has soured the fans in the only section where it is possible to get the money that Dempsey demands for defending his title.

Yankees Will Fight To Last Out, Manager Miller Huggins Declares

By MILLER HUGGINS,
Manager of the New York Yankees.
(Copyright, 1924, By United Press).

Cleveland, O., Sept. 24.—As long as there is a mathematical possibility the Yankees will be in the pennant race. The prospects are not the best but we have not given up and we will be in there trying until the last out is made.

Washington has been playing fine ball. To beat them out and win the pennant we will have to play better ball and it is not the part of a traitor to admit the difficulty of that task. We are two full games behind with only five games to go. A lead of two games is nothing in midseason but in the last week it is a great advantage.

Schang is Out

The injury to Wally Schang, which lost him to the club, was a severe blow. The loss of a good catcher is always serious to a club but it was more than that in our case, because he has been of such great value in handling our pitchers, most of whom he had worked with for years.

The strain and tension of the hot pennant race should not have told on a veteran club that has been through three pennant races where the competition was almost as spirited. Many of our players had been through the test before they came to the Yankees. But the erratic fielding that was exhibited in several games indicated that the strain was telling.

Will Do Best

With all the Yankees are a great club and they are not the kind to curl up. The players all know the seriousness of the situation facing them and they will do their best. No more can be asked of them.

Scene from "Broadway After Dark" A WARNER BROS. PRODUCTION

"Broadway After Dark," Drama of the Broadway.

The wickedness, the sham, the fascinations and disillusionments of this iron-souled town are incorporated in this screen version of the Owen Davis melodrama, a Warner Brothers' Classic of the Screen. The direction is by Monta Bell, who was associated with Charles Chaplin in the making of the latter's important picture.

Colleen Moore and All Irish Cast in "April Showers" at Lyceum

An Irish cast for an Irish play.

So said B. P. Schulberg, producer of Preferred Pictures, when he began filming "April Showers," a piquant tale of Irish activities in New York's lower East Side, from the combined pens of the Lightons.

Consequently this attraction, to be shown at the Lyceum tonight and Thursday, has a cast of players such as never before has been seen outside of Old Erin.

Schulberg not only made sure that his players were Irish but he also chose to direct it Tom Forman, who can trace his antecedents to Dublin Castle. The services of Colleen Moore, of course, were in immediate demand, for her Irish brown eyes and waving dark hair are not only true to Irish coloring, but her saucy vivacity and whimsical humor are true Irish characteristics.

"Bringing Up Father in Ireland" All New at New Park Monday, September 29th

With an entirely new outfit of scenery, costumes and cast of new faces, also diversified talent, comes that ever new but now ten years old musical entertainment "Bringing Up Father." Each successive season brings a host of new features patterned after George McManus' world famed cartoon creation of the same title. As each Sunday edition of a thousand newspapers throughout the entire world, show some new stunts of "Jiggs and Maggie," so does the stage attraction present new features every season. This season takes that pair of "Turtle Doves" back to their native land. "Bringing Up Father in Ireland" is the title of the offering which will prove to be the most popular of the series. Unlimited opportunity is offered for surpassing efforts in every detail of an up to date attraction. Of course, "Jiggs" will be the Lion of the Hour among the native Colleen, and in order that he will not miss the atmosphere of Atlantic City, "Jiggs" and "Dinty" have secured the agency for the "Irish Isles" for the snappiest one-piece bathing suit imaginable. Which will be O. Raising the Family—On sure! Let's all laugh!

NO MATCH IN SIGHT FOR JACK DEMPSEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 24.—After several convincing examples given the boxing public in the last two years, it seems that a new heavyweight champion will arrive, not when a challenger has been built up, but when Jack Dempsey falls down to the level of an ordinary rival.

Dempsey is in the same position that Jim Jeffries found himself several years ago, when he was forced to go back to the farm because there was no heavyweight left for him to fight.

The present champion, however, is playing in harder luck than the former title-holder, because in Jeffries' time the championship was not a million-dollar asset and there was no system of building up a challenger to fool the public as there is today.

The unusual scarcity of heavyweights good enough to be steamed up into challenger material is evidenced most strikingly in the admission of Tex Rickard that he has failed to find a heavyweight good enough to risk the money that is necessary to put over a show in which the champion takes a part.

Rickard was very gloomy about future business prospects after Harry Wills and Luis Angel Firpo had made such a mess out of the fight in Jersey City that was staged for the purpose of finding an opponent for Dempsey in the next championship bout.

Wills had the finest chance of his life to make a showing that would force a promoter to arrange a match for him with the champion. He had everything to gain and nothing to lose. Wills did win the fight, of course, but he made such a bad showing that more than 40,000 paid customers, who support big boxing, left the arena firm in the conviction that Wills couldn't go more than a round with the Dempsey of the Firpo fight.

There is no question that Wills did prove himself the outstanding challenger for the championship. But at the same time he showed himself to be a very poor one. He is entitled to a bout with Dempsey because he is the only one of the contending bunch that has never been beaten by the champion.

Good as he may be, Wills never was an interesting fighter. He has never given a good fight around New York and he has soured the fans in the only section where it is possible to get the money that Dempsey demands for defending his title.

Yankees Will Fight To Last Out, Manager Miller Huggins Declares

By MILLER HUGGINS,
Manager of the New York Yankees.
(Copyright, 1924, By United Press.)

Cleveland, O., Sept. 24.—As long as there is a mathematical possibility the Yankees will be in the pennant race. The prospects are not the best but we have not given up and we will be in there trying until the last out is made.

Washington has been playing fine ball. To beat them out and win the pennant we will have to play better ball and it is not the part of a traitor to admit the difficulty of that task. We are two full games behind with only five games to go. A lead of two games is nothing in midseason but in the last week it is a great advantage.

Schang is Out

The injury to Wally Schang, which lost him to the club, was a severe blow. The loss of a good catcher is always serious to a club but it was more than that in our case, because he has been of such great value in handling our pitchers, most of whom he had worked with for years.

The strain and tension of the hot pennant race should not have told on a veteran club that has been through three pennant races where the competition was almost as spirited. Many of our players had been through the test before they came to the Yankees. But the erratic fielding that was exhibited in several games indicated that the strain was telling.

Will Do Best

With all the Yankees are a great club and they are not the kind to curl up. The players all know the seriousness of the situation facing them and they will do their best. No more can be asked of them.

Scene from "Broadway After Dark"
A WARNER BROS. PRODUCTION

"Broadway After Dark," Drama of the Broadway.
Great White Way
"Broadway After Dark," the coming attraction at the New Park on Thursday and Friday, is said to be a midnight drama of New York, replete with all the glamorous escapades which stir the imagination and which cause hundreds of thousands annually to exchange their home towns for the glitter and gayety of Broadway.

Colleen Moore and All Irish Cast in "April Showers" at Lyceum
An Irish cast for an Irish play.

So said B. P. Schulberg, producer of Preferred Pictures, when he began filming "April Showers," a piquant tale of Irish activities in New York's lower East Side, from the combined pens of the Lightons. Consequently this attraction, to be shown at the Lyceum tonight and Thursday, has a cast of players such as never before has been seen outside of Old Erin.

Schulberg not only made sure that his players were Irish but he also chose to direct it Tom Forman, who can trace his antecedents to Dublin Castle. The services of Colleen Moore, of course, were in immediate demand, for her Irish brown eyes and waving dark hair are not only true to Irish coloring, but her saucy vivacity and whimsical humor are true Irish characteristics.

"Bringing Up Father in Ireland" All New at New Park Monday, September 29th

With an entirely new outfit of scenery, costumes and cast of new faces, also diversified talent, comes that ever new but now ten years old musical entertainment "Bringing Up Father." Each successive season brings a host of new features patterned after George McManus' world famed cartoon creation of the same title. As each Sunday edition of a thousand newspapers throughout the entire world, show some new stunts of "Jiggs and Maggie," so does the stage attraction present new features every season. This season takes that pair of "Turtle Doves" back to their native land. "Bringing Up Father in Ireland" is the title of the offering which will prove to be the most popular of the series. Unlimited opportunity is offered for surpassing efforts in every detail of an up to date attraction. Of course, "Jiggs" will be the Lion of the Hour among the native Colleen, and in order
